Laddey Clark & Ryan Attorneys Address Bar Association

Sparta, NJ -- Laddey Clark & Ryan attorneys, Partner, Andrew A. Fraser, and Associates, Jarrod Cofrancesco and Lauren D. McFadden, were speakers at the Sussex County Bar Association's recent Seminar: "Hot Tips for Solo Practitioners or Small Firms".

Fraser and McFadden teamed up to offer advice to attendees of recent changes in court's decision on the Automobile Insurance Cost Reduction Act (AICRA) and cautioned practitioners not to undersell their cases. They also provided strategies on money-saving approaches to litigation.

Cofrancesco advised attendees of some indispensable strategies in representing their clients in Municipal Court. His counsel included strategies to minimize point accumulation as a result of traffic offenses and successful approaches in defending clients in insurance-related offenses, which carry significant penalties. Cofrancesco also advised attendees on strategies to defend and address charges for operating on a suspended license. And finally, Cofrancesco provided some insight on the offenses of Driving While Intoxicated and Refusal to Submit to a Breathalyzer.

He also strongly encouraged attendees to emphasize the positive attributes about his/her client to impart an affirmative/constructive impression upon the Prosecutor and Judge. Cofrancesco stated that "whatever the facts and circumstances are, they can be spun to shed a positive light on your clients."
